

K-LOVE is a national radio station that I've been listening to since moving to Northern California. The music broadcast on the station is clean music that I don't have to worry about being offended by the words. It gives me uplifting messages that help when I am having a difficult day. Because of the songs and messages on the radio station, I know people have been turned from depression and even suicide. If this LPFM broadcast was to replace K-LOVE then we would not have the encouraging songs or announcements, and we wouldn't be able to listen to the quality of safe music that is safe for the entire family.
